POLUGAR №2 Garlic & Pepper — Rodionov with Sons POLAND 580

POLUGAR №3 Rye bread with caraway seeds — Rodionov with Sons POLAND 580

POLUGAR Buckwheat — Rodionov with Sons POLAND 580

"The Bread Wine of the Russian Empire" is an alternative name of this drink, as well as "the progenitor of the Russian vodka". It dates back to 1895. The brew, made of selected wheat and rye, passes through a triple distillation in a special, recreated by old drawings copper pot, and then it is purified with the use of birch coal. Polugar is stronger than vodka and it treasures bready aroma and mild flavor of its raw materials — rye and wheat.

SUPREME DRINKS Caraway FRANCE 970

The drink was created by all the canons of Catherine's era. In 1765 Catherine the Great signed the new Charter of distilling, which became the impetus for unprecedented development of manufacturing technologies for refined alcohol from grain spirit — "Supreme Drinks". Thus began the Golden Age of Russian vodka.
